

14 More Would Seal the Deal

Are Trader Joe's officials really considerate, or is it just an act?

Trader Joe's sells tomatoes in their stores that are picked by workers who get paid 0.50 cents per 32-lbs of tomatoes. Who wants to spend their money on food that has been harvested by people who aren't getting proper wages for it! I think everyone has a fair shot at being paid at least minimum wage. Farm owners who grow these tomatoes hire these people and give them legal documentation to work in the US, so why not pay them fair wages. People have written letters to the Trader Joe's corporation, and still nothing is being done to up the worker's wages. If you feel the way I feel about this, then you should do the worker's a favor and stop buying Trader Joe's tomatoes. It would do everyone a favor to show that you don't want to support Trader Joe's in this cruel act.

Khalil Clark: Junior @ Science Leadership Academy supporting the Coalition of Immokalee Workers

Contact Info:
kclark@scienceleadership.org