

Globalization

Photo ESSAY Tyler Hankinson

The Italian Market is the popular name for the South 9th Street Curb Market, an area of Philadelphia featuring many grocery shops, cafes, restaurants, bakeries, cheese shops, butcher shops, etc., many with an Italian influence. The historical heart of the market is ~~Although it is considered the social and commercial heart of the Philadelphia Italian community, it has been an ethnic mix since its~~ existence

Political

This photo shows how the city of Philadelphia has been taken over by politics. The reason I chose this picture is because it represents how no power is ever at its peak; there is always a way for bigger and better things, and by showing a skyscraper and the two buildings behind it, it shows the constant need to grow.

CULTURE

I took this picture on richard allen ave the reason that I took this picture is it represents the constant placement of religion in any community that you come across in the world in every community you will find at least 4 different religions in A three block radius, The other reason that I took this picture is it stood out to me because it has been globalized in the since that even though its a so called sacred building it is not safe from vandalism or harm.

Sports

I chose the Philadelphia sixers because basketball has been turned into a multimillion dollar business. This picture represents the cross-over of any race or gender into the sports world and this picture capitalizes on how the world views athletes.
