The US appointed Chamorro because of his success in leading the Nicaraguan military. The conflict between conservatives like Chamorro, was prolonged and bloody Chamorro said all rebels shall be killed U.S. filibusters led by William Walker sailed to Nicaragua to take over and to set things straight in the nation. Walker and followers evacuated Rivas with the force of U.S. marines and thought that he had so much power that He made four more attempts to come back

Somoza controlled large portions of the economy, had military support of the National Guard and had acceptance and support from the US. The Somoza family was a very powerful family and García was no exception with his exceptional english, knowledge of American culture and charm, he was able to win over America quite easily He strategically put different close associates and family members in different parts of the gov't and military and PLN he had the whole power system wired
