

GAMES TV SHOWS AND STUFF

At my old school, I had an American history teacher that disliked a lot of people. I am 90% sure I was her least favorite. She disliked other students, but the entire class knew she didn't like me. She tried to make every class as difficult for me as she could without making it obvious. I would raise my hand to answer questions, but she did not call on me and then said that I didn't participate enough. When she would finally call on me, it would be the hardest question that I did not raise my hand for, and I would usually get it wrong. She would call me out for small mistakes in front of the class and tell me that my work was never good enough as if it were a special announcement to the class. She would never help me by giving me constructive criticism. She would start problems with me to see if I would finally show her how angry she had made me so she would have a reason to get my parents called or get me suspended. I never did and instead I would just let her say what she felt needed to be said, because she did not have a good reason to punish me.

To be honest, I never really liked her, but I was never disrespectful and I did well in her class. I got good grades and was almost always prepared for my classes. It seemed to me that she was usually in a bad mood, and she took it out on the students she did not like. She did this just because she knew that no matter how many times the students went to the principal to complain, it would never be brought up. Everyday I had her class, it was pretty much the same, but no matter how many times she yelled at me for no reason, I did not talk until I had to. At the end of the year I ended up getting an A in her class.

My various experiences with this teacher affected my identity as a learner, because it taught me that not everyone in charge of you will like you. They may try to single you out, discourage you, and they might even try to get you to give them a reason to punish you. No matter how many times they try though, just do not do anything wrong. Do not change your character. They might still yell at you, but even the most unfair teachers need to come up with a half decent reason to give you a punishment. In the future, I will continue to be respectful to everyone, even if I am provoked, especially authority figures.

My passion is playing football.

I have really liked football for a very long time. It's my favorite sport to play and watch. I like almost everything about it. I love playing it the most.

My favorite football team is the Philadelphia Eagles. They definitely aren't the best team, but this is my home team. Being an Eagles fan is exciting at times. Like when we won the super bowl, or when we made big comebacks. It can also be disappointing at times. Like when we don't play well, when a good player gets injured, or when the coaches call bad plays.

Ever since I was five or six years old, I have been playing football. I had been playing and practicing for so long that I got really good at it. I was playing football on my first team about four years ago. It was pretty fun and I plan on doing it again. I met so many new people and even made friends with people on different teams. I learned about teamwork and the benefits of hard work.

While playing football, I have also had many negative experiences. I have been lightweight and fast my whole life. By my first year on a real team, I was nine years old and I weighed seventy nine pounds. My coach decided to put me on the offensive and defensive line. Typically, these positions are for larger players, but my coach clearly had other plans. I don't feel that my skills were highlighted.

Football has been a really big part of my life for many years. I learned about teamwork and the benefits of hard work. It has changed my life for the better in many ways, and that is one of many reasons why I love this sport.

When I was a kid, I would watch every football game I could. To me, football was really entertaining and super fun to play. I would always ask my dad if we could play catch in my grandma's backyard. By playing with my dad, I learned to get really good at being a quarterback. One time, a few years ago, playing with my dad had a negative outcome. While playing catch with my dad, I was running to make a catch, and I ran into a tree at full speed. Despite getting hit so hard, I didn't drop the ball.

I sometimes think about playing football professionally one day, but there are pros and cons. Some of the pros are the amount of money that you get paid, having a job that is fun, getting to stay in shape, you can become famous, people will love you if you are good, and you can meet new people. However, there are cons to becoming a football player. You might not get accepted into the NFL, There is a high risk of injury, people might not like you, and the frequent travel could be draining. Overall, I really love football. I enjoy playing it and watching it. I hope to keep playing and watching football.

Try our new controller deals!!

Upgrade your controller today!

215-555-GAME

Aries: you will have a good day

Taurus: you will be disappointed about something

Gemini: you will lose something important and find it in a place you already looked

Cancer: you will find money

Leo: you will do something great

Virgo: you will pass your next test

Libra: you will have a good night sleep

Scorpio: you will have a minor inconvenience

Sagittarius: you will have a good day

Aquarius: something good will happen to you

Capricorn: you will have a good day

Pices: you will have both a good day and a bad day

Save up to 50% off your next manga purchase
Today!!

215-555-SAVE

Dear Readers,

My name is Aman, and my Me Magazine is called “Games, TV shows and Stuff”. This is a new magazine. It will be about football, anime, games, and my cats.

You can expect to see football news. You will also see football scores. I will add football matchups as a part of the football news as well. You will also see game highlights and schedules.

You can expect to see things like new anime. You can also expect to see things like the latest manga chapters. I will also keep you up to date with upcoming anime and manga.

You can also expect to see the latest video game content such as updates, patch notes, new guns, new characters, new skins, and new seasons. You will also be told when new, popular games will be available for purchase and the reviews on those games as well.

Finally, you will see my cats. I will keep you up to date on a lot of their likes and dislikes. I will also share funny and cute pictures and moments.

I hope you will enjoy these magazines and continue to read them in the future.

Sincerely,
Aman Easterling
Magazine creator/editor

