

A

Life

Goofers

Frenetic

你好!

Welcome, reader.

v

Table of Contents

Letter.....	1
My Freetime Frenzy.....	4
Past Memories of Education..	5
cool cats.....	6
Comment box.....	7

u got mail! Letter 4 Reader

Dear readers, I hope this article finds you well to understand me better and as a unique person. Or you can use this as an example article to help you with your article, future reader. Okay but this article shows the aspect and elements of how I am made into who I am now. And I am fairly joyful for who I am now.

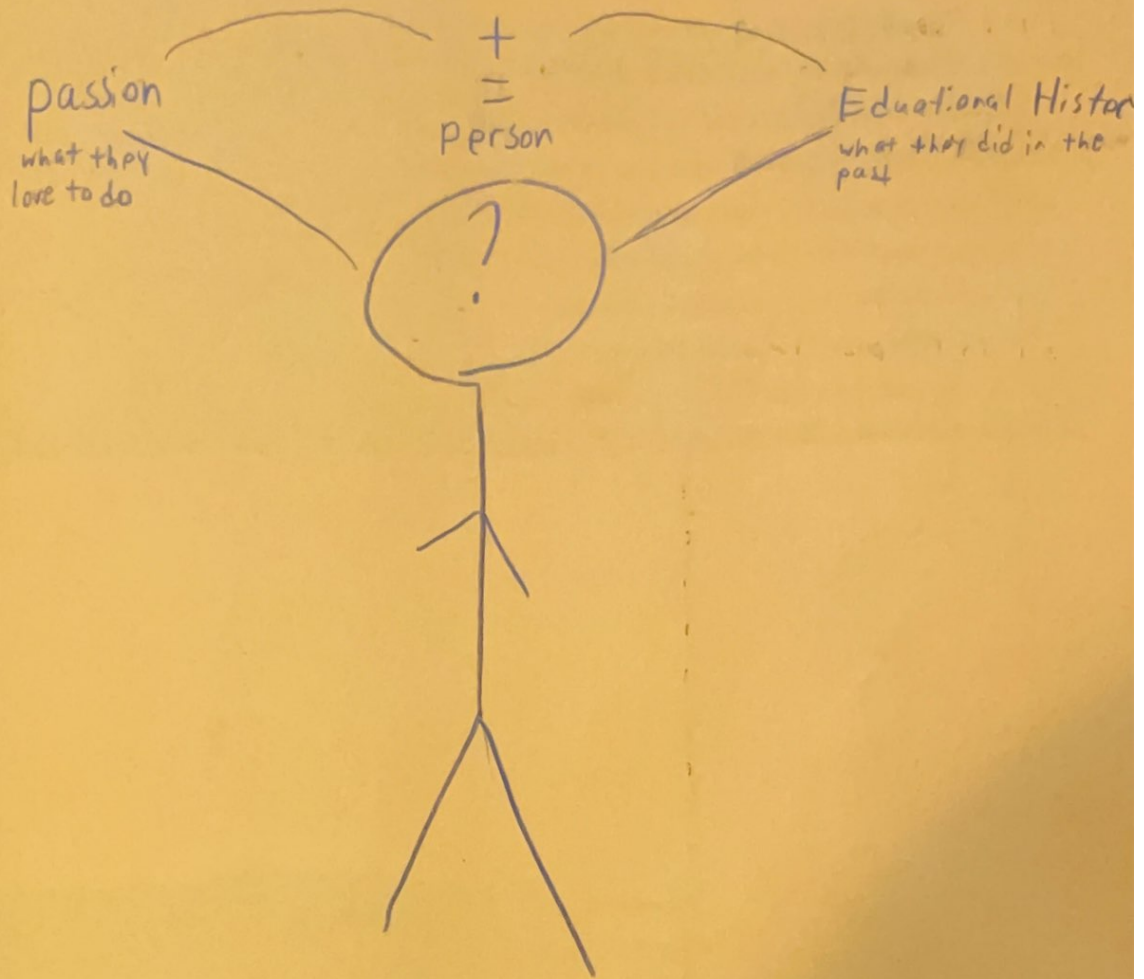

One aspect in showing someone is passion. Passion can really reveal who a person is since it is what they love to do for their passionation. Or it can at least reveal one element of their personality. Passions are what people love to do and will probably predict their future. For example, if my passion was art, I would be creative and dexterous for those aspects of my passion. For my passion, it may be basic but it really does explain a lot about me.

Another aspect in showing someone is their past memories in educational history. Starting as a kid, we would always have education or school and our past memories are filled with that. But it can tell a lot about someone because their past memories can impact their future self. It can impact many elements of personality, as a learner, organizer, or thinking. For my past memory in educational history, it is very unique and unusual but however ended in the right direction.

I hope you understand who I really am as a person for all my positivity I showed in this magazine.

Scientific Diagram of What makes a person

Equation = Passion + Educational History

Tired of Watching American Shows?

Try Watching Anime today!

Anime are animated cartoon shows made by Japan.

Most Animes are watched from Crunchyroll and the best part is that it's FREE (but there are ads)

Starter Pack of Shows 2 Watch

1 Tokyo Ghoul (Recommended)

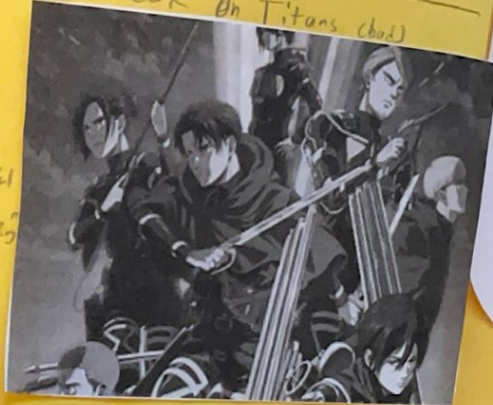

A teenager boy turns into "something" and takes his vengeance on society

2 Fire Force

There comes a group of fire wielding power users, looking to unravel the secret behind the fires.

3 Attack On Titans (bad)

A group of skillful attackers and "power-wielding" finds the truth behind the power-wielding abilities

My Freetime Frenzy

(what I do in my freetime)

Someone that starts to grow up and develop their brain and mind will eventually start to experience and have a passion that they love and depend on since it is what they do. If they do not have a passion, then how could one enjoy life where it is made up of many unique and undiscovered aspects of experiences that one can do on Earth? So one must have a passion or else they be built different. Everyone on Earth is different and unique including their passions. So there comes one of my passions in life, it was playing video games. Video games were one of my childhood memories that I mostly do in my freetime. To this day, I am still playing video games and will probably never get off of this passion of mine. Overall, I have started playing video games from 2014 to present, around 7 years from 2022 that I had been playing for. I was about six or seven years old when I started playing. This passion of mine made my past memories and mind a more better place, making it more positive. It was like an infinite loop of happiness for me. For that, it made me a better student as a learner since I had an overall positive mindset. Many of my experiences are me, after school, go straight upstairs to my room and playing video games for the first thing I do. Sure I may be procrastinating my work in school but I just really wanted a break from a long boring school day, and then I will do my work. One important thing in video games is dexterity and memory. You need to be dexterous and have a good memory to play video games deviously if you really want to have fun, or you can be the key spammer who presses every control hoping to do something. When I started playing, I was extremely unskilled at where I should position my hand and memorizing the keys on a keyboard. But I gained more experience from playing around with the keyboard and got better with it over time and there I am in the present day typing this at lightning speed at the last second this article is due. With the amount of love in my passion, I bought a $1,500 setup for gaming. I did this just so I can access more graphical games that my setup before could not handle. One of my favorite games is Valorant. This game has simplistic graphics but has a really great concept and idea. It also has a great and non-toxic community and communication system. This game is really competitive where both teams compete for a winning stand. It gets so competitive that they host tournaments that are live streamed which many people watch. My inspiration for watching people in the tournament play wants me to also attend a tournament and possibly play to possibly win. So overall, my passion was video games which I would play on freetime when boredom strikes and I hope to join a tournament once and possibly win!

Past Memories of Education

As a child grows, they start to develop their body and mind, creating thoughts and memories and totaling it into an emotional state that they are comfortable with staying. With this, my experience in the past in my educational school had many past memories that I had forgotten but I still try to think and try to regain that memory back as I want to see my blunders in my past and see my solutions of what I could have done differently in those situations. One of my memories in my educational history was when I was in elementary and middle school and me and my friends would always mess around and have some goofy fun at a necessary time in the classroom when we were not doing anything that was told by the teacher or when it was free time. Sometimes we goof when the teacher is teaching but most likely not since we can get in trouble easily. Of course we would goof around at free time when it is lunch or recess but we would just play games that we had invented. Me and my friends were all goofballs and trollers but this relationship combo was a streak of infinite goofiness. Though this shows an under average student in school, at least someone in their heart has to be the clown that has to brighten everyones day and goof around in a boring place where people have to learn most of the time. Surely this breaks the main and significant purpose of why people go to school which is to learn but there are many other purposes. Their purposes can be to develop your body and mind, meet new people, socialize, and mentally, physically, and intelligently get ready for the future of adulthood where the big picture of the unknown realm hides in all of our pockets with nothing that was shown in our eyes till that time really comes. In short words for the other purpose of school, it is to prepare for the future by developing skills. Now, when my friends and I were messing around, I would feel laughter about to burst, the urge to be funny, being unfocused, and the emotion of happiness and cheerfulness. I would also feel not left alone as I would sometimes be alone which is where the negativity comes from. Though I am an introvert, I would feel negative emotions when I am lonely, so I would need someone to support me and I would also support them too. I can be collaborative and supportive if I were comfortable with the people that I am doing it with or else it would sometimes be quiet and awkward at some times, therefore, I am better alone when doing work. These positive feelings when my friends are around bring my past emotional and mental state a more positive mindset. For this, it makes my past memories and identity of myself equal to a more better, joyful, and more positive person and mindset. This impacted me to be a better learner since I had an overall positive mindset. It has made me a more better organizer for my creative mind to make inventions of how I should organize things in a way where I am able to track, find, and study my work. For example, I would create online flashcards and study off of that or create a document where it includes all of the work information that I would try to memorize by reading that info first then closing my eyes, trying to remember what that info was. For my creative organization and ways to do my work, I am an average student that is able to understand information simplistically. Overall, my past positive memories were able to help me in the future to be a more successful and devious person as a learner.

Cats are Cool,
so, here are some cats

Fun Fact: Cats have 9 lives! 🐾

Put your comments under!
(What did you think of my magazine?)

The End

Thanks for reading!

See ya!

再见!

8

