

Letter From The Editor

At American Schools we try to provide students and families with information about what's going on during the school years and upcoming years. As of late it has been a slow decline in the education of minorities and a high incline in the education of caucasians. This has led to caucasian schools being given more opportunities in the education system and chances to test out new and improving schooling techniques. If you're a caucasian student, this is your time to shine!

For the families of minorities reading this, I hope that you will encourage your children to try harder in school to improve the efforts of their schools. If they were to try harder perhaps they would be given more opportunities.
